30/9/15	I really enjoyed the exhibition presented this evening. The comparison between the two cultures / so different yet similar in the mistreatment of them. Thank goodness some of their culture + language has survived and your work is helping to do that! E Lofferts
30 Sept 2015	Thanks for an amazing body of work, for the variety of media (yrs, sound!), and for bringing the connection and the comparative element to the fore of your beautiful work. Thanks! 😊
30/9/15	Beautiful depiction of two cultures & people. Thank you x
30/9/15	Great photography!
30/9/15	An amazing exhibition! It portrays an incredibly insightful view into people in culture, and how we must protect it. Thank you x

30/9/15	Judith, what an incredible insight into the depth of our country's heritage, an invisible contrast & an amazing connection. Doug
30/9/15	You've done an incredible 'thing' to describe the connection between two distinct - yet similar - communities. Your creativity and compassion are commendable. Looking forward to the next one! Elaine
30/9/15	What a fantastic display. Beautifully captures the similarities + contrast of each story. Jessica.
30/09/15.	Brilliant Judy, not just the individual photos which are fabulous themselves but the pump from the tree regions. And having your chase sheet too!

1/10/15	An amazing array of breath-taking photography, inter-woven with stories of the truth of towns, of cultures and people who are struggling to keep their culture and old traditions alive.
1/10/15	Meditative
2/10/15	A feast of stories + images.
3-10-15	One of the most striking exhibitions I have seen. A winning combination of 'photographer's eye' and excellent quality prints. Unsurpassed!
3-10-15	thx. I most appreciated the two apparently disconnected locations/cultures showing side by side. Draws out, and initiates thoughts of their mutual base.
